Building on the success of past industry-open cables workshops in 2015, 2016 & 2017, CEATI International’s 2018 event will provide a forum to share information on best practices and emerging issues for working on transmission underground cable systems.

Supported by CEATI’s Transmission Underground Cables Interest Group (TUCIG), the event will address and explore the latest in development of tools, techniques, research and experience to improve the design, installation, operation and management of transmission UG cable systems.

Presentations will draw from the expertise and experience of electric utilities, cable and accessory manufacturers, and thought leaders in the field of engineering work practices. The workshop will provide an open forum for information exchange and deliberation, with a focus on technical presentations and the sharing of ideas and experiences for the benefit of the industry. It is expected that the presentations will generally fall in line with the descriptions below and will range from theoretical to real-world examples and lessons learned from projects.

THEMES

1. Asset Management & Life Extension
   - Health Indexing and Risk Assessment Tools and Methodologies
   - Life Expectancy of UG Cable Systems
   - Emergency Spares Strategies and Life Expectancy of Spare Parts
   - Utilizing HPFF Cable Infrastructure for XLPE Cable Conversion

2. Advanced Diagnostic Techniques
   - Corrosion Control and Work Practices to Manage Risk of Leaks on HPFF & LPFF Cables
   - Diagnostic Equipment and Techniques to Access the Condition of UG Cables
   - Safety Procedures and Equipment to Manage Safety Risks Working Around UG Cables

3. Design and Installation Options
   - Transition Joints
   - Sheath Bonding Systems
   - On-line and Off-line UG Cable Monitoring Systems and Techniques
   - Advancements in Cable Design and Accessories
